Algonquin College's New Campus

Investors Group, a Pembroke-based financial services company, presented Algonquin College in the Ottawa Valley with an early Christmas present. Mark Jennings, Division Director, presented a cheque for $500 to Dawn Dubé, a member of the Algonquin College Capital Campaign Committee. The cheque is a donation from their corporate division, in support of Algonquin College's new Ottawa Valley Campus.

Mark Jennings, an Algonquin College Business Administration-Finance graduate, says supporting the community in which they do business is good business. "With so many worthwhile causes, it is important to ensure that donations are effective in opening up possibilities for expansion in our community. We are excited that Pembroke will soon have a new Algonquin College in downtown Pembroke and look forward to its opening in 2012", adds Jennings.

Capital Campaign Committee member Dawn Dubé, congratulated Mr. Jennings and the Investors Group for their great work and thanked them for hiring Algonquin summer students and graduates. Construction of the new $36-million campus is moving forward and the building will be open to students in September 2012.

The College is thrilled with the community support for its new state-of-the-art facility. Over $1.9-million has been pledged towards the local campus capital campaign goal of $2.5-million. With the help of the community, the capital campaign committee is confident that they will meet their objective.
